PRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 5, 1879

The special attention of the capitalists and Lusiness men of this community is directed to the communication of Dr. Julius Dienels, in today's Gazattee, as deserving their earnest consideration and ex-operation. An opportunity is now presented for starting in our midst an enterprise that may not only be made very profitable, but that would lead to the establishment here of other industries, whereby labor and capital would be drawn hither and an impetus given to the one thing needful to build up and make prosperous cureity-MANU-FACIURES. We hope that the subject may receive the consideration it deserves, and that it may be productive of good results.

The news of the safe arrival of the good ship Vega, with the Arctic exploring expedition of Prof. Nordenski dd on board, at Yoko hama, brings feelings of relief and satisfaction. not only to the scientific, but to every other pertien of the civitz d ward. She entered the Arctic ocean from Sweden, and, stilling east, as finally, after a voyage of more than a years. during which, owing to the prolonged intervals that occurred in the reception of intelligence from her, the gravest fears were entertained for her safety, emerged through Behring's Straits, and reached Japan, on her way home, with all hands well. One of the practical beneficial results of the expedition has already manifested itself by opening a large and prosperous water trade between the heretofore considered almost inaccessible towns of northern Siberia and the ports of northwest ro Europe.

Because a brother of Dixon, who was shot in Yazoo, has not received an answer to a lat days 1go, it is gravely asserted in radical ty the rebels of the South and all the corresdence of republicans overhauled and examined, and a special detective has been set to work by the Postmaster General to discover the gratui tously imagined offenders. If delays of equal length in the reception of responsive letters from ports in the North as remote from Washing. ton as Yazoo city were indications of tampered maile, but few unrifled mail bags would be ro ceived from that section, and special detectives would be hunting breakers of the postal laws on all the northern routes.

formed at the lodge room, or rather on the e mmons of the old neadeny, and morehed in good order to the depot to receive the speakers which were expreted on the morning train. Unfortunately for the waiting crowd the train was behind time just one hour. At last the long expected whisele is heard, and the band making as larget our weariness in wanter white er joying those sweet stratus of a mic.

The band ceases, the train moves away and the Good Templats march to the be unful grove on the land of Major P. R. Foster, about two handred pards from the dopor, where a stand has been built for the speakers.

There were about twenty-five hundred poor ple on the grand. Good order prevailed throughout the vast audience, and much inter s: is mauifested.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. S. M. Athey.

That soul inspiring byma, "Nearer My God to Thee," was then sung by the choir.

Hon, E. T. Kunchloe then, in a very hap py strain, introduced to the audience, A. G. Green, etq , of Markham, who, in one of the best effores of bis bie, held the audiere completely under his control for nearly one hour. Mr. Green, after commerating a long list of of jections to the order of Good Templars, said that some people said that Good Templars were made up of silly old women, thoughtless youth and broken down drunkards. This is a big mis take-come of the best people of the land were in the order. But we had some mighty hard cases, as was the case in any organization in the land. Some new members would say that they would not take a drink to save their life, but he said that it one drink would drive death away Methusalah's age would be but a child's age to what his would be.

Mr. Green said that he felt very much like an old lady in 1840. when Harrison was elected President. This old lady had a quilt, on which she was quilting, and which she completed. A protracted meeting was in progress which she strended, and soon began to shout, and ixsleimed that her quilt was done, she had re ligion and Harrison was elected President. Her work was done, and said he, I thank God my intemperate days are over.

Mr. Green's speech was loudly applauded. If Mr. Green does not represent old Fauquier in the next Legislature I am no prophet. A better man for the position cannot be found in the county. But we are digressing.

The band disceursed the sweet Sabbath School song, "In the Sweet Bye and Bre," and when the band ceased, Mr. W. A. Rucker, County Templer, introduced to the audience Rev. S. M. Atbey, who acquitted himself with his usual ability. Bir. Athry said that he knew men is the church who called them. selves moderate drinkers who were perfect be derived from a greter number of these in c bloate, who drank forty gallons of whiskey per chines. year, and yet they held their position in the church, to society, and every where else. Mr. Stubbs sustaiced himself in one of his mis happy efforts.

After music oy the band J. M. Kilgour was introduced by Dr. Hotner. He said : Shall I at ompt to give these thoughts which were clothed in such beautiful, el queut etraine? Nay, we give it up to dispair and lay our plan faces, drick is all in. This all mar word veteran needs no word of praise by me to the read-

Mr. Kulgeur ridicaled the idea of the Vir giois Legislature oceating a law so that a large revenue might be realized, and proved con the two counties would realize in twelve months; and the murders were caused by whiskey drinks ing. Mr. Kilkeur speke for more than an hour.
